

A Rule on Accidentals

When a note is altered by an accidental, it will stay altered throughout the entire measure (but only for that measure.) For instance, if we sharp F, all other F's in that measure will automatically be sharpened and therefore, a sharp sign on the other F's in that measure is not necessary. (see m. 10)

Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring

Johann Sebastian Bach
(1685-1750)

Student

Teacher